TIPS FOR CONTACTING LOVED ONES:

- If you're looking for a loved one after Hurricane Milton and cannot contact them, visit our reunification resource HERE and fill out the form. Please provide as much detail as you can to assist us in potentially contacting your loved one.
- Widespread power outages and limited connectivity can impede communication efforts. We recommend calling during off-peak hours for the best chance of getting through and sending a text message, which may go through when phone calls cannot.

HOW TO FIND A SHELTER:

- If you need a safe place to stay, please come to a Red Cross shelter. You can find locations HERE, downloading the Red Cross Emergency app, or calling 1-800-RED CROSS.

WAYS TO ACCESS HELP AND RESOURCES:

- Our volunteers are working quickly to assess needs alongside local state officials. Immediately after a disaster, we focus on providing safe shelter, food, emotional support, and first aid.
- Even if you don't stay overnight, you can come to a shelter to shower, charge your devices, get food or access resources.
- Connectivity may be a challenge in many areas, but if you can, download the Red Cross Emergency app or visit the website HERE. Our resources are there to guide you through your recovery.
- For the latest updates on how the Red Cross is responding in your area, follow American Red Cross of Central Florida or South Florida Red Cross. #Milton
- If you were flooded and are displaced you can get a property tax credit! More information HERE
